

GERMAN LEADERS SAY GERMANY WILL NOT SIGN THE PEACE TREATY

"WE WON'T SIGN" IS THE DECLARATION OF MANY HUN OFFICIALS

Berlin, June 17.—"We won't sign!" Stripped of all verbiage, these three words, constitute, almost without exception today, the reply of Germany's leaders to the Allied peace terms. While they have not yet been able to study the treaty after its final modifications, party leaders and those of the national assembly were emphatic that the treaty will be rejected unless the allied answer meets the German counter proposals. It is among the national assembly which will unquestionably determine Germany's final answer, that the loudest protests were being made today.

Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German delegates to Paris, reached Weimar this afternoon with the Entente answer.

The course which the government will take in its consideration of the treaty was not announced officially, but it is understood that it will be turned over as quickly as possible to the national assembly which will sit as a body in its consideration.

Leaders interviewed today were members of the peace committee of the national assembly, before whom the treaty probably shall first come. Their statements reflected the sentiment of their respective parties.

All leaders declared flatly that they would not sign, with the exception of Dr. Hugo Haase, Independent Socialist leader, who said:

"The Independent Socialists are trusting to the international proletariat to nullify the provision of the treaty."

Herman Mueller, president of the Majority Socialists, declared:

"Unless the draft of the treaty has been subjected to sweeping modifications it is not likely that it can be carried out. Hence it is unsigned. However, it is to be hoped that the Entente answer corresponds sufficiently to our counter proposals to allow signing."

A note of pessimism was dominant in the views of practically all the leaders.

Signing is possible only if the Entente answer is within the frame of the German counter proposals," said Dr. Gustave Stresemann, president of the German Peoples party.

The size of the indemnity and the territorial concessions that Germany will be called upon to make were the principal causes of bitterness of Dr. Stresemann's party.

"It is noteworthy," he continued, "that the German government did not dare submit to the peace committee of the national assembly a draft of the counter terms. Had it been known that they contained an indemnity provision calling for one hundred billion marks gold it would have probably been rejected before. That part of it is the work of the German government, and not of the German parliament nor any parliamentary committee."

"Germany can only accept a peace which will take the counter terms as the maximum indemnity payable under any consideration; that will concede an immediate and unqualified plebiscite in the eastern districts and in the Saar region."

"Alsace and Lorraine must be allowed to determine themselves whether they will belong to any nation or become autonomous."

"Germany can sign no peace which will take away her merchant marine."

PRESIDENT ARRIVES AT ST. GERMAIN FOR CONFERENCE WITH AUSTRIANS.

President Wilson and Admiral Grayson at St. Germain.

President Wilson, accompanied by his physician, Rear-Admiral Cary T. Grayson, arrived at St. Germain to attend the conference during which the Allied peace terms were presented to the Austrian Peace Delegation.

ANOTHER LONG PERIOD OF MEXICAN COMPLICATIONS IS FACED BY U.S.

Washington, June 17.—The beginning of another long period of Mexican complications. This was what leaders in the house and senate saw today in the latest border developments, which resulted in the pursuit into Mexico and severe chastisement of Villa's forces by American troops. Government officials particularly those of the state and war departments, were positive that no complications would arise, but their view was not shared by those at the capitol.

The fear was expressed that the whole affair is likely to terminate in a resumption of the petty banditry on an extensive scale such as has kept the border aflame since the recognition of Carranza. Villa's hatred culminated once, it was recalled, in the massacre of American soldiers and civilians at Columbus, and so long as the bandit lives it is felt that the border will never be quiet.

El Paso, Tex., June 17.—American troops are out of Mexico today, but Francisco Villa, rebel chieftain, is reported preparing to make reprisal for the inglorious defeat he suffered at the hands of American forces at Juarez yesterday. The bandit leader, completely routed at Juarez, is lurking in the hills to the southeast where he fled with the American cavalry pounding at his heels.

Villa, it is feared, will make it his business to carry on guerrilla warfare in the hills with American mines and smelters as his chief victims. Villista forces also are expected to operate in small bands, raiding American owned properties wherever possible and occasionally swooping down to attack small border towns.

The action of the American forces in swiftly taking the field to drive Villa away from Juarez definitely prevented the bandit leader from accomplishing his object of capturing and controlling that important border port. Villa's chagrin at this defeat, it is believed, will lead him to seek revenge and imperil American lives and property.

Hostility against the Americans is prevalent throughout the entire border district, it is declared today, and is not confined to Villistas, the Carranza forces sharing in the resentment felt over yesterday's "invasion" by the Americans.

The last of the American forces returned to United States soil late yesterday, the withdrawal ordered by General Cabell, commander of the southern department after the United States troops had accomplished their object of driving the Villistas from the border. United States casualties were limited to two wounded artillerymen and three wounded cavalrymen. This does not include those wounded or killed as the result of fighting that occurred before the American forces crossed the border.

OHIO LEGISLATURE GIVES WOMEN OF OHIO THE RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE

Columbus, O., June 17.—Votes for women!

Women of Ohio today are in position to get the ballot in two ways. The suffrage amendment to the national constitution was ratified by both branches of the general assembly and for good measure the legislature passed the Reynolds-Fouts bill giving women presidential suffrage in Ohio in 1920. The latter bill is identical with the Reynolds bill passed two years ago, and which was defeated when submitted to a referendum by a majority of 140,000.

The house vote on ratification was 73 to 6. Backuski, of Cleveland; Helfrich, of Crawford; Huber, of Mercer; Mulcahy, of Henry; Scott of Cincinnati and Shy of Pike, cast votes against.

In the senate the vote was 27 to 3 with the three senators from Cincinnati, Ballew, O'Brien and Emmert voting against ratification.

There was not much debate and but little enthusiasm displayed by the suffragists in the galleries when the vote was announced.

Governor Cox sent a message along with the official certified copy of the federal suffrage amendment. The governor urged speedy action and gave three reasons.

"First—What is offered now to our women was their right long ago."

"Second—Bestowal of the right of suffrage will be regarded as part of the most serious changes.

ward for service and sacrifice during the war.

"Third—The nation and the world need the expressed mother voice as an element of safety when evil lies about us."

It is expected that the same interests which defended a referendum on the presidential suffrage bill two years ago will seek a referendum this fall.

London, June 17.—The Irish office today issued categorical denial of the charges contained in the report on conditions in Ireland made by Frank P. Walsh and other representatives of Irish-American societies.

The statement from the Irish office says that the Walsh report contains gross exaggerations and statements that are strictly untrue. Some of these statements, it adds, are gross fabrications.

Dublin, June 17.—The reply of the Irish government to the charges contained in the report of Frank P. Walsh and other Irish-Americans on conditions in Ireland, is being printed and will be published tomorrow. The Irish executive makes absolute denial of the charges.

STRIKE PLOTTED IN BERLIN

By Alfred G. Anderson.

Berlin, June 17.—A plot for a general strike throughout Europe, in protest against the allied terms of peace is being hatched in Berlin. Some of the details were revealed to me today by Karl Von Kreybig, Hungarian nobleman who turned Communist and is now unofficially representing the Hungarian soviet government in London.

Von Kreybig is the active leader of the German Communists, and an author of bolshevistic literature. His father was a Hungarian general.

Three days ago he revealed to me a plan to overthrow the Italian monarchy and set up a soviet government in Italy.

Von Kreybig declared that English labor leaders visited Berlin after the entente terms were delivered and conferred with Hugo Haase, leader of the Independent Socialists, on plans for the general strike throughout Germany, England, France and Italy.

This statement was confirmed by Frau Joseph Gabisch, a sister of William Marshall Bullitt, the Kentucky lawyer, who recently investigated conditions in Russia for the American peace commission. He declined to give the names of the Englishmen but asserted that they were in close relation with the German socialist leaders and that similar relations existed between the French, Italian, German and other European socialists who exchanged communication via Berlin.

Kreybig today reinforced his statements to me regarding an attempt against the Italian monarchy from information which he said was brought to him by an Italian labor leader, who visited Berlin recently. This Italian, he said, declared that everything was thoroughly organized for the coup, and that in some parts of Italy the people were openly saying: "Death to the king."

WIDOWER SUICIDES BY HANGING SELF

St. Marys, Ohio, June 17.—John Junj, 50, a widower, suicided by hanging himself from a rafter of his barn near Bremen. He is believed to have first attempted to drown himself in the eastern. A note found directed his son to look for his body in the eastern and his clothing was wet when he was found. Ill-health is supposed to have caused the deed.

GORED TO HEART BY ENRAGED BULL

St. Marys, O., June 17.—Henry Fahley, 45, was instantly killed when gored to the heart by a mad bull on his farm near the southeastern limits of Auglaize county. The bull was killed to release its horns from the victim's body.

LAND KING OWNS ENORMOUS ESTATE

London, June 17.—Even the Duke of Sutherland, with his 900,000 acres and Lord Leverhulme, with 560,000, made a poor showing in comparison with Henry Miller, the American land king.

Miller, who emigrated to the States as a penniless lad from Wurttemberg now owns estates covering 14,080,000 acres, or more than twice the total area of his native land.

Some ingenious admirer has made an elaborate calculation which shows that Miller could start at the Mexican border, traveling by team to British Columbia, and camp every night of the journey upon his own land.

FEARING INSANITY GIRL DRINKS POISON

TOPEKA, Kan., June 17.—Fearing insanity, Miss Anna Noel Holt, daughter of the late Judge Noel Holt, drank poison on the steps of the house of Judge W. A. Johnson, of the Kansas Supreme Court, a long time friend of her father, and died in a few minutes. Miss Holt left a note saying she feared insanity.

CONEY ISLAND IS BECOMING PARADISE

New York, June 17.—Coney Island is fast slipping into a class with Paradise.

"Down here," wailed one of the old times how barbers "everything used to go. An' now look at it wid all dese reformer guyes busy. Gittin' to be a regular Sunday school convention Chautauqua."

"These are some of the things the 'reformer guys' have put over on poor old Coney:

No more dancing the shimmy or indulging in strangleholds on the dance floors.

No more bare legs, one-piece bathing suits or short bathing skirts on the beach.

No more close love cuddling on the sand.

No more Oriental wriggings in the dancing shows.

A. A. finally, although they can't quite believe it, yet at Coney, no more real beer after July 1.

"The next 'ting," soliloquized the old-time barker, "they'll be pincin' guys for droppin' peanut shells on the board walk and rentin' bungalows to Billy Sunday and Bill Bryan."

But despite all this, subway, street car and elevated lines, as well as the paddlewheel steamers that carry crowds to Coney Island, continue to be jammed.

WILSON APPROVES SPEAKING ITINERARY

Washington, June 17.—President Wilson has practically approved the tentative itinerary for a speaking "swing around the country" as mapped out by Secretary Tumulty, and has directed that it be made public on the date of his departure from France it was stated at the White House today.

The president plans, it was added, to address a joint session of congress immediately upon his return to Washington. He will then spend several days at the capitol clearing up his desk, after which he will start on the proposed speaking trip. The president did not indicate when he could be expected, but white house officials believed that if the Germans signed the peace treaty on June 23, the president would leave on either June 24 or 25. This would bring him home about July 4 or 5.

FINE WHEAT IN KANSAS.

ALLIES REPLY TO THE GERMANS AND SAY THEY MUST SIGN THE TREATY

Paris, July 17.—Since the resumption of German industry is a matter of world concern, the allies, in framing the peace treaty took care not to withhold from Germany facilities which might interfere with that resumption.

This statement was contained in the allied reply to the German counter proposals, further sections of which were made public here today.

"While Germany, as the author of the war must bear its consequences, her essential interests have been spared as far as possible," the reply states.

The section of the allied reply made public today follows:

"The German reply made no definite offer as to reparations but gave only vague expressions of willingness to do something undetermined. The sum of one hundred billion marks was indeed mentioned to give the impression of an extensive offer, which upon examination it proves not to be. No interest was to be paid until 1928 after which would come a series of undefined installments running over nearly half a century."

"The allied and associated powers make the declaration, however, that as the resumption of German industry is an interest of theirs as well as of Germany, they will not withhold from Germany commercial facilities necessary to this resumption, but on the other hand, will subject to conditions which cannot be laid down in advance and to the special economic situation created for them by German aggression, afford to Germany facilities for food supplies, raw materials, and overseas transport for the common good. Meanwhile, the treaty must be signed. The burdens of Germany undoubtedly are heavy but they are imposed under conditions of justice by peoples whose social well being and economic prosperity have been gravely impaired by wrongs which it is beyond the utmost power of Germany to repair."

"Part nine, finance: While Germany as author of the war must bear its just consequences, her essential interests have been spared as far as possible. Reparation must be prior to the settlement of all other German public debts with such exceptions as the commission may approve to protect German credit. Payment for food may also be a first charge and gold may be exported on approval. Military occupation as an essential guarantee of peace must be paid for by Germany in accordance with custom, notably that set by her in 1871. War material surrendered after the armistice cannot be credited against reparation. Liberated territories will bear their portion of the pre-war debts, but cannot be asked to assume any part of the war debt itself. After the events of the war, the powers have the right to demand that Germany be no longer intimately involved in

BEFORE DAYS OF LINOTYPE

Detroit's First "Newspaper" Used Town Crier to Make Public the Events of the Day.

An item that appeared in this column recently to the effect that a certain Swiss village still retained its "spoken newspaper" for the dissemination of news instead of the modern method of the printed page, recalls to mind the fact that Detroit once had a "spoken newspaper," too, and that here the "spoken newspaper" probably reached its highest development in the United States.

The Rev. Fr. Gabriel Richard, a priest of the Order of the Sulpice, who came to Detroit as resident pastor of the Roman Catholic church of Ste. Anne in 1789, was its conductor, and it was the precursor of journalism in Michigan. To arouse the public and awaken an interest in the affairs of the government, Father Richard appointed a town crier, who every Sunday at the doors of his church, told the public in general, and the congregation in particular, all the news that was fit to speak. In addition to this, the public crier mentioned the auction sales and related other advertising announcements. Later, to supplement the "spoken newspaper," a written edition was posted at a convenient place near the church. Father Richard was assisted in his news enterprise by Thoplis Meetz, the sacristan of Ste. Anne's church, but later a printer and publisher.—Detroit News.

CHANGE OF BLOOD

By ALICE ROBERTS.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

A year of the great war had changed Walter Chambers—now Lieut. Walter Chambers—from a blue-blood to a red-blood. Incidentally, it also changed the whole course of his life. This was true, not to the mere gassing he suffered at Forêt Noir, but to a deep, subtle transformation of his soul. He had seen life and death. He had become a man.

Yes, Chambers had red blood in his veins now. And the difficulty he met most often since his return to his old life was in realizing that the old blue-blood of his stay-at-home friends had not changed its color in the least.

Of course they were all very kind. They suffered a brief recital of a tale of his adventures—and then asked him if he had heard of the slump in the steel market. Jack Rogers, his oldest friend, patted him gently on the back and asked for information about the style of evening dress in Paris. Then old Baker had offered him his former position at the bank. Of course he refused it. He could not think of it now. And, besides—there was that offer of Beard.

He was telling Katherine about it now. Katherine had always been regarded as his. There had been no engagement—but engagements are mere conventions. I need not tell you that Katherine boasted of the size and number of blue corpuscles in her blood.

"And so," he was saying, "this offer of Beard looks pretty good to me. I could never work indoors again. The gas, you know, touched a couple of tubes in one of my lungs, so that—"

"You never told me that, Walter." She seemed alarmed.

"Oh, it's nothing at all," he assured her. "But I've grown so used to being out of doors that I could never bear to go back to the bank and dictate those highly exciting letters—Yours of the stentch received, and in answer would say—"

"There are lots of other things you could do."

"No doubt! But Beard was with me across the pond, and wants me to go out to Dakota with him. He has a big wheat farm out there. He wants me to go partners with him. Wants to run it on a business basis. We were great pals in France."

He glanced up. Katherine was looking at him in horror. He arose and went over to her. He spoke doubtfully:

"Will you—er—will you come with me, Katherine?"

"To a farm? In Dakota? Why, Walter! What are you thinking of? Leave all my friends—everything I am interested in—for a farm in Dakota? You know I could never live there!"

Well, a year ago he would not have blamed her. And yet he could not help thinking of the women he had met in the past month—the nurses, and the war workers, who risked life, even, not for love, but for an ideal. Why, there was Nance Richardson, who worked so near him at Thiery. He would never forget Nance. How different she was from Katherine.

"And I, Katherine—I could never live here." He was frank.

"Well?" That was all, except for the almost imperceptible raising of a delicate eyebrow.

"All off, eh, Katherine?"

"What do you mean? You need not bury yourself in the wilderness. You are young and clever. There are many things that you could do. Why, Jack says—"

"Oh, it's Jack, is it?"

"Well, yes."

"You never loved me, did you, Katherine?"

"I don't think so, Walter."

Two weeks later the engagement of Katherine Leonard to John Rogers was announced in society circles. Shortly afterward Chambers swung off a train at a little station in the heart of the farm lands of the Dakotas.

Beard's welcome was warm and hearty. The atmosphere of the country was bracing and energetic and virile. This was a man's country.

They drove swiftly over the rolling, snow-covered plain. Chambers threw back his shoulders and breathed deeply for the sheer joy of it. Life was worth living there. Just as they approached the great farmhouse, after the long drive, Beard stopped his chatter to say:

"Remember Nance Richardson?"

"Do I remember her? Will I ever forget her! Why, she did more for our boys at Thiery than—"

But they were at the door now, and of a sudden there appeared, as it seemed to Chambers, a vision.

"Welcome home, gentlemen!" It was Nance herself.

"Wh—what? Say, Beard, is Nance your—your—"

"Yes, old man, she is my sister. Discharged, like ourselves. Had an assumed name over there. Certain army regulations, you know. They wouldn't let my sister go over, so she merely shifted names."

And Chambers smiled happily and leaped forward like a boy. He knew he was welcome indeed. He knew Nance's blood was true red.

GRAND DUKES OF RUSSIA BARRED BY FRANCE.

Grand Duke Boris

The Republic of France has decreed that none of the grand dukes of Russia, who used to lead the pre-war gayeties of Montmartre, may return to France except to live in the strictest seclusion according to a report from Paris. Those who want to live in Paris or at Deuville or on the Riviera must first satisfy the French authorities that they intend to lead quiet lives. Already one of their number, Grand Duke Boris, son of Grand Duke Vladimir and nephew of the ex-Czar, according to the report, has been expelled from French soil. Disregarding the French ban, he came to Paris with forged passports accompanied by a woman. Following an alleged scene at the home of a prominent financier in Paris, the Grand Duke was notified that he had forty-eight hours to leave France.

Each of the high school graduates will give an oration, and with the exception of the address by the class president, Randolph Van Scoyk and the class prophecy by Joseph C. Rohe, these orations will be given in the afternoon.

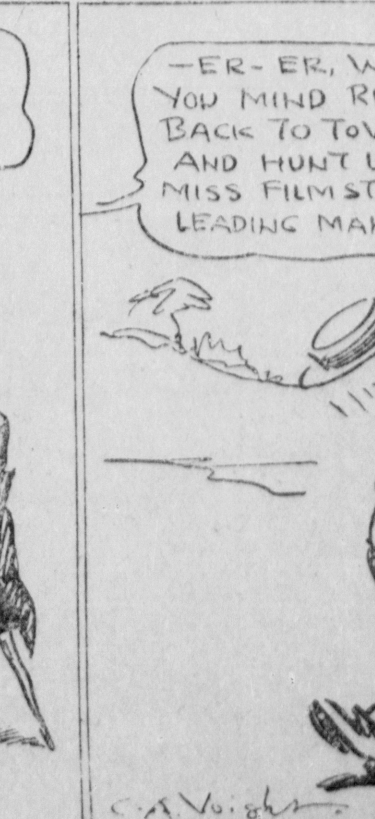

There will be 16 graduates from the high school, four in telegraphy.

MUCH DAMAGE IS DONE TO WHEAT BY RECENT STORMS

General damage has been done to wheat all over the county by the heavy rain and wind storms of the last few days, but to what extent the grain has been injured from this source it is impossible to determine so far, according to County Farm Agent Ford S. Prince.

In many places, large sections of wheat fields, the grain almost ready for the harvest, have been leveled by the storm as completely as though a roller had been passed over them. The heads are so heavy that the wheat stalk is unable to rise, and such grain will be almost a complete loss. Damp weather will cause the grain to sprout or rot on the earth, and great difficulty also will be experienced in cutting such wheat. Two heavy storms passed over sections of the county Monday afternoon and evening, but Xenia had only heavy showers at both times. In sections of Beaver Creek and Bath township hail fell about noon Monday and this helped to damage wheat fields. Beaver Creek overflowed its banks in places, the first time since its channel was improved, and some corn in fields in lowlands were flooded. Some of this corn was uprooted so badly by the water that it will have to be replanted.

County Agent Prince said today that red rust is appearing on wheat in many sections of the county, and causing more worry to farmers than the storms. This fungus appears on the stems and in a sort time can greatly damage the wheat. It is different from the black rust, which is caused by the barberry.

The Summer Solstice.

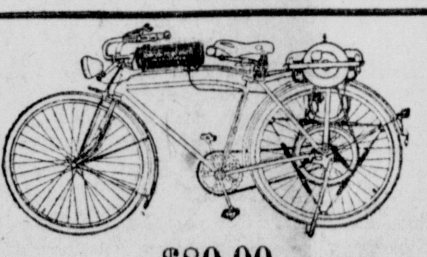

June 21 is the day of the year when the sun is directly over the equator, and for several days about that time there is no observable difference on his position, or his hours of rising and setting. It is the longest day of the year.

The members of the senior class were entertained by the juniors Monday night in the parlor of the administration building. There were forty present, including Superintendent and Mrs. Elton and High School Principal Mrs. W. S. Sackett. The class colors and pennants were used to decorate, and ice cream and cake were served in the state dining room.

World's Greatest Cataract.

What is set down as the greatest cataract in the world is on the Iguazu river, which partly separates Brazil and Argentina. The precipice over which the river plunges is 210 feet high, that of Niagara being 167 feet. The cataract is 13,123 feet wide, or about two and a half times as wide as Niagara. It is estimated that 100,000,000 tons of water pass over Niagara in an hour. A like estimate gives the falls of Iguazu 140,000,000 tons.

PESKY BED BUGS

A MILLION BEDBUGS. Just think, a 35c package of the new golden chemical P. D. Q. (Pesty Devils Quietus), is enough to make a quart and enough to kill a million bedbugs, no matter how large they may be, where they came from, their age, color or sex, and at the same time leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

CUT THIS OUT. This new chemical can be had at any first-class drug store. A 35-cent package makes a quart of P. D. Q. and will do farther than a barrel of old-fashioned bug killer. Don't let anybody impose upon your intelligence by offering you something else. Insist on what you ask for, then you'll have what doctors prescribe.

London, June 17—Commander O. Locker-Lampson, who went into Russia with a consignment of armored cars, found English spoken there.

A charming visitor at one house where he stopped seemed anxious to display her knowledge of his mother tongue. After some excited waiting for an opening in the conversation she managed to break in with all the English she knew.

It was: "Kiss me quick!" The commander told the United Russian Societies that he didn't.

FOREIGN IMMIGRATION MENACE.

Ever since the revelations, furnished by the Seattle strike, of the obnoxious activities of undesirable foreigners in this country the government has been to considerable trouble rounding up and deporting these elements of our population. Now we are being treated to another manifestation of radicalism of a distinctly foreign form, that of bomb throwing, and the government must again go on the hunt to root out the perpetrators, and again thin down by deportation or other process of disposal the accumulations with which our immigration laws cumber our population.

We allow these undesirables to come in, bringing with them their European luggage of anarchism, class prejudice and ignorance—unlearned in our language or institutions—and to colonize in our cities by nationality, trade or community of ideas. They do not mingle except with their own kind. They absorb nothing of America, have no conception of its government or institutions as being in any way different from those they left at home and against which their early prejudices were formed, and continue here the agitation and interchange of violent ideas that were their weapons against oppression in their native lands. Naturally they are the violent element in every disturbance. In every industrial strike they see a social revolution. Murder, riot and destruction of property are the only weapons they know the use of and anarchy their sole political idea.

If America is to be preserved from the class war-fare that constitutes the program of these European off-scourings it will not be by belated hunting down and deporting of them after their crimes have been committed. It must be by the rigid exclusion of them from our shores. Our immigration laws must be revised and strengthened against the menace. They should set up standards by which it would be possible to know whether an immigrant who applies for admission has the qualities to make an American or whether he comes as an enemy of democracy's institutions.

CAIN AND GERMANY.

An expression which has come from the German delegates to the Versailles Conference, very often, during the last few weeks, is that the terms to be exacted of them by the allied nations are so severe that they are "greater than they can bear."

We have wondered if they had forgotten that Cain himself, the first murderer, made use of the same words, remonstrating with God against the just sentence that divine justice had affixed, and saying: "My punishment is greater than I can bear."

The use of this expression associates them with that primeval criminal. They are unhappy in the choice of words, if they think thereby to soften their sentence. They compel us to remember that Cain deserved his sentence; that it was passed by the God of infinite justice, and that its conditions were not changed for all his whimpering plea.

Germany stands today a self-constituted and a self-confessed criminal among the nations. Its own published determinations, before the war, show its criminal intentions; its own self-laudations during the conflict reveal the blackness of its own cruel heart; and its confessions since show that it is even more criminal than many had supposed. It went into the war for conquest, and its own enrichment and aggrandizement. It was defeated and stripped of its arms, and now it is demanding, after all, something it calls "justice," meaning mercy, and whining out in loud lamentations, like Cain, the fratricide, that the punishment about to be administered is greater than it can bear.

Very well. Let it say what it will and may. It is the judgment of the world that the punishment is right and just, not for vengeance, but for the simple protection of the world against similar assaults in the future.—Herald and Presbyterian.

FREDERICK SUGGESTS BAB AND NEIL LIVE IN THE COUNTRY.

CHAPTER CXVI.

Neil was back home with Robert and me. But he was a changed Neil. At times so quiet, so depressed I scarcely knew him; at times feverishly planning to make good so that he might win back the respect of people, business men, and me my place in society.

I pointed out to him that all that must be given up. That not for many years could we hope to regain any sort of social position. One night I said something of the sort when Frederick was with us. The business was not quite settled, and he often came to the house to talk it over with Neil.

"It may not take so long as you think," he replied. "It will depend entirely upon you—" he looked at Neil.

"I am a pretty poor dependence," Neil spoke moodily.

"As I said it will depend upon you." "Tell us just what you mean?" begged, I thought I had detected something encouraging in his voice and manner.

"If Mr. Forbes will accept it I shall offer him the position of Eastern Manager for me. I have contemplated a change for some time. What do you say, Forbes?"

Tears rushed to Neil's eyes. He tried to speak, but couldn't altho his lips moved. By a great effort he calmed himself, then said:

"Do you mean it, Frederick? It doesn't seem possible a man would do so much for a down-and-out as you have done for me. And Frederick, would it not be bad for you, your business, to have it known that I was handling it after all this notoriety?"

"I surely mean it Forbes. It may be hard sledding at first, and I don't deny that I may lose a little business because of what has happened. But that is my affair, I'll start you at a fair salary and commission. Then it is up to you. Will you take it?"

"Will I? Yes, and thank God every day of my life for such a friend as you have proved yourself to be. I will do my best—my level best to prove my gratitude. He rushed from the room to hide his emotion.

"You are wonderful," I said very low to Mr. Frederick when we were alone.

"No, not wonderful. Just anxious to help the woman who is, always will be the one woman in the world to me. Anxious not only to help her, but to help those she loves. But don't think I haven't weighed the result of my act. I am a pretty good judge of men, a fair business man myself. Your husband is a keen, quick-witted young man. That he used his keenness in the wrong direction, doesn't prove he cannot use it right if he is persuaded it will be just as profitable. I am putting all moral questions aside, altho I really believe that now he would do right because it is right even without financial returns. But he will make good for himself and for me too, so do not think you must be overly grateful."

"No one else would give him a chance."

"Perhaps not — not right away. But he couldn't be kept back long, he is a born financier. And not much over thirty." Then he changed the subject as Neil returned by asking if he had decided anything about a home. The days were passing and soon we would have to make way for Teale and his noisy brood.

"I have looked a little, but am almost discouraged. Rents are so high."

"Why not take a little place down on Long Island where you can have a garden and the boy a place to run in. I was down there with some friends the other day, and I inquired something about rents, etc., with you in mind."

"I should like to get out doors and dig in the ground once more. That is if Bab would like it." Neil said a light of pleasure at the prospect in his eyes.

"Like it! I'd love it! and Robert would go wild. He never has had a place to run."

"Well suppose I take you down in my car next Sunday. We can look at two or three places. Our cars had been sold to Teale."

"May we take Robert?" I asked.

"Of course, the little shaver will enjoy the ride," so it was settled, and the first step in making a new home taken.

Tomorrow—Neil's Life Job.

WILMINGTON TEAM PLAYS TIE GAME

A tie game that went 11 innings with the score three-all, marked the initial contest of the season of the Wilmington Clintons, who met the Dayton Lily Brews at the Wilmington park Sunday. The Brews are the same lads who were defeated by the locals a week ago by the score of 10-7.

The Brews shifted their line-up somewhat, Catton performing at first while Zink went behind the bat and Friend hurled. Each side garnered ten hits and three runs, G. Rohrer, who fanned three times and failed to get even a scratch hit here, annexing three safeties in five trips to the plate. Hieronimus did not pitch for the Quakers, but performed at second base. Burke of Columbus, doing the hurling. Rain stopped the fracas in the eleventh. The game was the first of the season for the Clintons.

THIS APPARENTLY IS DOUBTFUL HONOR

London (by mail).—Now that General Pershing is a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Bath, it is interesting to learn just how the order originated. It was instituted in the fourteenth century and its inception was as follows:

A certain esquire was brought before the King in order to receive the accolade of knighthood. In those days soap and water were not in as common use as at present, and the King is said to have noted a very strong odor when the knight-to-be was ushered into his presence. Turning to the Lord of the Privy Closet the King said:

"Peradventure this brave fellow requires rest and refreshment after his great and prolonged heroism. Therefore, take him away and give him a bath and fresh raiment and sustenance. Then bring him again before me to be knighted."

This proved so acceptable to the court that the bath was thereafter made a part of the ceremony of knighthood, and in his book on the history of the Tower of London, Sir John Younghusband gives an amusing description of how the ceremony of initiation was performed.

Around one of the halls of the White Tower were arranged forty-six baths filled with warm water and draped within and without with clean sheets. Over each bath was draped a canopy. Into each bath stepped an esquire, who sat therein until the King entered, followed by a large and distinguished train of courtiers. The King stepped up to each aspirant for knighthood as he sat in the bath and dipping his fingers in the water, made the sign of the cross on the esquire's back, at the same time pronouncing the words that dubbed him knight. The rest of the ceremony consisted of the new-made knight drying himself and then watching his armour all night in the chapel.

Puzzling.

"Pa," said the young hopeless, "I can't understand you grown parents a tall. You and mother always tell me you ain't got no money whenever I want to buy candy or ice cream dainties, but I take notice you don't seem to have much trouble digging up a nickel for me to take to Sunday school."—Indianapolis Star.

CABBAGE AND SAUSAGE WOMAN'S DIET

"I have doctored with the best doctors in the United States. Some said one thing and some another was ailing me and all wanted to cut me open, but Mayr's Wonderful Remedy saved me, so now I eat cabbage, sausage and anything I want to. Nothing hurts me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. CAN NOT KEEP THE WOLF FROM DOOR ON $15,000 A YEAR

New York, June 17.—Surrogate Fowler has under advisement the case of a poor little rich girl who just can't live on $15,000 a year and thinks a slight increase in her income to $20,850 a year would be about right. The Surrogate will announce Tuesday whether it is going to be a hard summer for the young heiress, who is Miss Lorena Carroll, 19 of 590 West End Avenue.

It is not the first time Miss Carroll has felt the pinch of poverty. Twice before the rising cost of living has impelled the court to increase her allowance, and now with luxury taxes, ice cream and sodas going up, and all that sort of thing, it is a good bet she may get another.

Miss Carroll is the daughter of J. D. Carroll, horse dealer and Tammany politician, who died in 1912, leaving an estate of $1,750,000. After making ample provision for his widow, the testator allowed his daughter, the only child, the income of a trust fund of $150,000, until she becomes 21 in June, 1921. Then she is to receive the principal of the residue, amounting to $1,250,000.

The war over, living seems to be getting higher, for Miss Carroll's petition points out that she simply can not get along on the amount the court has allowed to date.

For instance, there are these items to be considered, she says: Share of rent of apartment with mother$2,000 Sport clothes, evening dresses, auto coats, jewelry, furs, toilet articles, hairdressing$3,000 Household expenses$4,000 Insurance$850 Maintenance two automobiles $5,000 Education and contribution to church$2,000

Pleasure, theaters, dinners, dances summer cottage, travel, hotel bills, fares$3,000 Physicians, opticians, dentists, medicines$1,000

Of course, there are ever so many things one can not really think of at the moment, but from that list the court can get some idea of how tough it is for a poor little rich girl to live on a paltry sum of $15,000 a year.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"I am an unmarried business woman and for business reasons I am obliged to ask a young man to attend a dance with me. Is it necessary to invite a friend to go with me?" asked Miriam.

"It is better in such a case, to ask a married woman friend to go with you. If you have no married friend ask a friend that is older than you are to make the third. This is not necessary but is in better form to do so," responded her aunt.

SURPRISE PARTY ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

In spite of the rainy weather of Monday, about a hundred and twenty-five people braved the storm and delightfully surprised Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swadener at their home on the Fairfield Pike. The evening was spent with music and a social gathering. The surprise was in honor of Mrs. Swadener's fifty-fourth birthday. Dainty refreshments were served, and they departed at a late hour wishing her many more happy birthdays.

TUBERCULOSIS AND ITS CURE TO BE DISCUSSED

Atlantic City, N. J., June 17.—Plans for a country-wide program for the protection of the nation's health during the reconstruction era will be discussed by government experts and health authorities from every state in the union at the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis association which opened here Saturday, June 14. The sessions will continue until June 17.

Fifteen hundred state and local voluntary anti-tuberculosis organizations, which have led the fight against the disease in the past ten years, will be represented by delegates, who will make a strong plea for further cooperation on the part of the government in their campaign.

As a result of their representations, based on wartime revelations, they hope that a division of tuberculosis will be created in the United States Public Health Service.

New truths about tuberculosis learned during the war will be presented by army and medical men who fought the disease both overseas and in the military hospitals here.

FORMER PRINCIPAL OF DAYTON SCHOOLS DIES IN FRANCE

Dayton, June 17.—Friends in Dayton of Harold R. Blake, former principal of the Oakwood village school, learned yesterday of his death in France just previous to the sailing for home of the Massachusetts hospital unit of which he was a member. He died in March.

Young Blake took charge of the local school in 1916 after finishing a professional post-graduate course at Columbia university. His home was at Marlboro, Mass. In the summer of 1917 several of the Dayton boys went with him to a camp in Maine, where he was counselor and later he obtained leave of absence in order to join the hospital unit, the condition of his eyes making his acceptance for the regular line impossible. Death resulted from spinal meningitis.

It is the first book of the kind compiled in the United States in forty years.

Prof. Clark is a native of Lytle a little town between Bellbrook and Waynesville. He went there from Xenia for a brief visit.

Firestone TIRESMost Miles per Dollar*SODA FOUNTAIN TAX

Repeal of the ten per cent tax on ice cream soda and other soft concoctions is provided in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Longworth of Ohio, a member of the ways and means committee, and in the senate by Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, a member of the finance committee, and it is likely that the Republican majority in both bodies will see that the tax is removed before the summer is over.

"This tax," said Longworth, "imposes an unnecessary and obnoxious burden upon the people in their enjoyment of harmless drinks. The majority in congress will easily find other means of getting sufficient revenue, especially by protection on imports, besides taking the extra penny or two from the young people of the country. And this, of course, also has reference to all that section of the present law which has to do with taxation on ice cream and other sweet preparations."

"In addition to this imposition upon the public, the tax is bad because it is proving very difficult and unsatisfactory in its administration. It is pretty generally believed by the treasury experts that it costs more to collect it than it yields to the government."

PRETTY WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED

A pretty June wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Jerome Schultz at Fairfield, June 14th, at 6:30, when Miss Bernice Pennewitt, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Pennewitt, of the Fairfield road, became the bride of Mr. Herman Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Young of Fairfield.

The bride was attired in a beautiful white satin dress, with Georgeanne, and a white satin hat and wore a corsage bouquet of bride's roses.

Lieut. and Mrs. Ralph E. Gordon, the latter the bride's sister, were the attendants.

After the ceremony they motored to the bride's home, where supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Young will be at home to their friends at Fairfield.

MOTOR AIDS

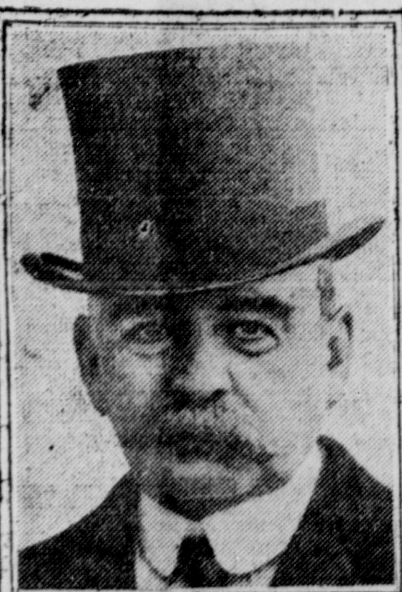

Here are a few convenient hints for the motorist. Oil being used for some time becomes filled with grit and carbon which may cut the metal in the cylinders. It is a good plan to change the oil every five hundred miles or so. The gear box and the rear housing axle should be thoroughly drained and cleaned out with kerosine and refilled with clean lubricant. Use heavier oil in warm weather than in cold. A heavy gear oil is better than grease. Never use a hard grease.

Look after the wheels of your car. Test them every few months. Side play in the wheels means excessive bearing wear and it will wear out the shoe as well. To test the wheels jack up each one and, by grasping it firmly, pull and push steadily. One can, as a rule, feel any side motion. On many cars the wheel bearings are adjustable. In any case do not allow the side play to continue. The loss in side wear should be sufficient to ensure the trouble being remedied at once.

Adds Life to Railroad Ties.

Railroad ties last about eight years under normal conditions, when they have to be renewed, which costs a good deal of money and calls for a large force of labor, says Popular Science Monthly. It is estimated that treated ties which are first kiln-dried and then immersed in hot creosote until saturated, last twice as long. They are absolutely waterproof and impervious to rot.

B. B. VANDERVORT HAS AUTO STOLEN

B. B. Vandervort of Jamestown, was the victim of auto thieves when his automobile was stolen from the garage and repair shop of G. W. Shroyer in Dayton and later wrecked at the Springfield street crossing of the Big Four railroad in that city.

Later parts of the machine that could be detached were taken by persons who helped themselves to what ever they wanted. The machine had just been overhauled in the Shroyer place. Dayton police have no clue to the thieves.

BEAR CUB IS COSTLY MASCOT

London, June 17.—With the best intentions in the world, Grand Duke Nicholas gave an English unit a bear cub for a mascot.

It made a lovely pet. But it grew up. And when all the casualty reports were in, it was found that the full-grown mascot had accounted for twenty-three pigs, thirteen turkeys and a dozen chickens.

There was a sunrise execution, and the unit adopted a little boy who had been wounded on the battlefield.

KEEP GOAT IN BACK GARDEN

All Kinds of Reasons Why the Newlyweds Should Give Some Consideration to the Animal.

The cartoonist, with whom the Newlyweds are a favorite if somewhat hackneyed subject, may sharpen a fresh pencil; the day is coming, if not already here, when the joys and sorrows of young wedlock may be pictured from a new angle. We are familiar with the Newlyweds' bungalow, with their baby, with their Tin Lizzie, fruitful of mishaps; soon with these stock possessions may be listed another—to wit, a goat.

One may keep a goat in the ordinary city or suburban back yard, Eleanor Anstruther writes in Sunset. No extensive pasturage is required as in the case of the cow. If a vacant lot or brushy hillside be available, a goat will thrive on what it can glean there, though a cow, horse, or even a sheep might starve. But our suburbanite Newlyweds presumably must keep their goat within the confines of their own back garden. Very well; every one may still be happy, including the goat. For the goat will contentedly resolve into milk and mutton any kind of vegetable or green stuff that grows in the garden. Weeds enchant her; she will eagerly devour, and with great profit to herself and owner, the results of a strenuous morning's weeding on the part of Mr. Newlywed. By-products of the kitchen, such as the parings of fruit and vegetables, are welcome, though it must always be remembered that contrary to general belief the goat is a clean feeder; the garbage must go to the chickens, not to the goat.

Briefly, a single goat may almost be kept on the waste from a garden, and the feed of a cow will maintain seven or eight goats.

HERE'S DEFINITION OF "PEP"

Altogether It's a Quality of Which Its Fortunate Possessor Is to Be Envious.

It's the thing which makes the lamb gambol with glee, the colts prance with joy, the calves throw up their tails and run like fury, the birds sing in split-throat notes, the frogs croak upon the creek bank, the insects buzz and hum in the air, the milkman whistle as he jogs along, the blacksmith laughingly beat the iron into shape, the plowman urge his horses with a "gee-up, there," the engineer wave a kiss to his sweetheart as he throws open the throttle, the woodman smilingly plunge his axe into the giant tree, the banker and merchant rush to their work with a cheery "bye-bye," the mechanic and laborer fairly dance to their jobs, the soldier "go over the top," with elated jaws and courage that knows no fear, the live salesman lie to his calls with shoulders squared, pride in his heart, and nerves at-tingle with anticipation of new success.

Oh, "pep" is anything that puts happiness in the heart, energy in the body, determination in the soul, and invincible courage in the will.—Exchange.

Exploration of Nineveh.

The great rediscoverer of Nineveh was, of course, Sir Henry Layard, who, in the early forties of last century, having obtained the patronage of Stratford Canning, British ambassador at Constantinople, himself an enthusiastic archeologist, journeyed to Mosul and commenced work of excavation on the mounds of Nineveh in real earnest. The story of the wonder series of discoveries which followed has been told vividly in his book, "Nineveh and Its Remains," published in 1848. This work created a great sensation, and the following year Layard set out east once again, this time as the agent of the British museum, with a grant of $15,000 to carry still further his great work at Mosul. For more than a year his labors went on steadily. The palaces of Sennacherib and Ashurbanipal at Kuyunjik were partly uncovered, as well as those of Sennacherib and Esarhaddon at Nebi-Yunus, and in 1853 Layard published an account of his second series of excavations in his book, "Nineveh and Babylon."

Famous Old Town of Mosul.

The town of Mosul reached its greatest prosperity toward the beginning of the decline of the caliphate, when it was for a time an independent capital. In the eleventh century it belonged to the Seljuks and in the twelfth, under the sway of the famous Atabegs, particularly of Zenki, it had a short period of splendor. One of its curious distinctions in history is the fact that the governorship of the town, as the pashalik, was long hereditary in the originally Christian family of Abd-al-Jelli, and it was only during the nineteenth century that the porte succeeded, after a long and severe contest, in establishing a more centralized system of government.

Numerous Rubber Plants.

There are nearly two hundred different kinds of plants which carry rubber, and they are still under investigation by botanists. While the plants are found for the most part in the arid portions of the Great Basin country of eastern California and Nevada, rubber-producing shrub has been located as far north as Washington and Idaho and as far east as Colorado and south to our southern boundary.

Whether or not these plants will be brought under cultivation is a question which can only be answered after many years of study and experimentation.

SAY "JAZZ" DANCE IS DISGRACEFUL

Atlantic City, N. J., June 17.—The "shimmy" dance is tainted. That is, taint nice and taint acceptable.

Ergo the International Association of Dancing Masters, recently in convention here, tabooed the naughty wiggle and yet, almost with the same breath, decided the real "jazz" dance surpasses all other terpsichorean efforts in grace and beauty. Oh, hum! Further, members of the association admitted they knew not who started the awful "shimmy." Of course there was no suggestion as to what they would do should they learn his, or her identity, but some of the caustic remarks relative to the famous wiggle naturally led to visions of a former popular pastime below the Mason and Dixon line.

While the masters banned the quiver, they showered compliments on that kind of "jazz" which is performed by foot movement with the heels scarcely touching the floor.

Verily these be perilous days for the "old timers," who actually enjoyed the good old round waltz and kindred, but innocent, dances.

BRIDE CROP TAKES BIG DROP AT BOSTON

Boston, June 17.—Maybe it was the weather, but whatever the cause was, the figures at Registrar McGlennon's office in City Hall show that there were 200 less marriage intentions filed for the first week of this June than there were in June, 1918, with all the boys in service.

June of this year was expected to be a record-breaker, with the service men all back and eager to claim the girls they left behind them.

That the proverbial June brides are still shy in putting in appearance was due to their familiarity with the difficulties of married life under the cost of living, according to one authority at City Hall. Another had it that the high-wage scale for business girls was making them more and more reluctant to give up any of their comforts for the comparative discomforts of married life on an income no larger than their own.

On the Road to Success.

That young man is wise who makes a plan, organizes his ambition, and makes each day contribute something toward its fulfillment. Success often seems delayed, but it is surely on the way for those who are getting ready for it. Over the desk of the boy or girl struggling with hard lessons that may seem at the present quite useless, let it be written in letters of gold: "I will study and get ready, and maybe my chance will come."

Bring Up the Reserves.

John was visiting his grandmother, who lived in the country. One day his grandmother found that John had but a few clean clothes left, so she told John to write to his mother and tell her to send him some new clothes. John obeyed immediately, and in a few minutes returned and showed her the letter, which was as follows: "Dear mamma, please send me a reinforcement of clean clothes."

Just "Substitution."

Here is a "substitution" story that will take a lot of beating. It concerns a farmer who was given a shopwalker as a farm laborer. The first morning he said to his new hand: "Take a horse and go to the station for a load of potatoes." When he arrived the station agent said: "All right, but how are you going to take them without a cart?" "Dear me," said the man, "I've forgotten the cart."—Argonaut.

STATE WIDE SEARCH IS ON FOR BANDITS WHO ROB CLEVELAND BANK

Cleveland, O., June 17.—A city-wide search for the five bandits who late yesterday held up the West Cleveland bank in Detroit Avenue, today developed into a state wide hunt.

While tellers and clerks were busy checking up to ascertain the amount of the loot—estimated from $12,000 to $50,000—officers in every city and hamlet in the state were on the look-out for the bandits believed still traveling in the stolen Ford automobile in which they escaped.

The robbery, by far the most daring ever pulled off in Cleveland, was staged just as the bank was closing for the day. Ten persons including employees and customers of the bank were held at the point of the gun for 15 minutes while the four men who entered the bank systematically looted its vaults and cash drawers.

The affair was directed by a "master" bandit, who gave orders quite as coolly as if he were managing a pink tea. Frequently reminding his men that there was "no hurry" he insisted that their search for all of the bank's funds be thorough.

"Silver is too damn heavy," he told them as one endeavored to make way with a quantity of silver in a bag improvised from an army shirt which he wore.

The usual order of "hands up" was reversed by this clever bandit. All found in the bank were sternly ordered to "keep hands down."

Miss Lucile Sharkey a bookkeeper, attempted to raise her hand to brush back a strand of hair, but under the menace of a revolver hurriedly dropped it.

"Little girl, learn to obey orders," said the bandit chief. "I don't want to hurt you but those hands must stay down."

The loot consisting of all of the paper and gold money found in the bank was carried away in suit cases and bags. Although the police were on the trail of the Ford machine in which the bandits made their get away 15 minutes after the robbery, practically their only clues were an army shirt, a black shirt and a cap thrown from the speeding machine.

Due to the fact that the day's deposit slips were taken by the bandits, bank officials varied greatly in their estimates of the loss. One placed it semi-officially at $15,000 but it is reported that the amount is much higher and may even run as much as first estimated—$50,000.

ALLIED COUNCIL MEETS TO COMPLETE THE AUSTRIAN TREATY

Paris, June 17.—With the German treaty disposed of, the Council of Five met this afternoon to complete the economic clauses in the Austrian treaty. Baron Sonnino, Italian foreign minister, replaced Premier Orlando at this afternoon's sitting.

The Big Five hopes to complete the missing sections of the Austrian treaty before President Wilson leaves for Brussels tomorrow night.

Publication of the German counter proposals and the Allied reply today simply emphasized the wide divergence of opinion between Germany and the allied and associated powers. Officials here declared today that the allied reply simply demolishes the German contentions.

Whether Germany will sign or not remains in doubt, despite the fact that a majority of the confidential reports reaching Paris describe the people as apathetic and generally demanding that their representatives sign. It is possible that before her signature is attached, the present German government will be succeeded by an Independent Socialist ministry.

If the Germans agree to sign, it now appears probable that they will place their signatures to the treaty at Versailles next Monday. President Wilson will leave Monday night, sailing from Brest Tuesday morning and going directly to New York. Should the Germans refuse to sign, the president will go home at once, leaving a new peace to be worked out by his fellow commissioners after the allies exert military and economic pressure.

Regarding the suggestion that Italy might refuse to sign the treaty unless given assurances that her Adriatic ambitions will be realized, leaders today pointed out that the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan are in complete accord and that therefore, the Italian attitude is not a matter of deep concern.

THREE XENIANS ARE TURNED DOWN

Three Xenia young men who applied for enlistment in the Navy Monday at the Springfield recruiting office were turned down by Chief Gunners Mate Leonard J. Peters, recruiting officer. The Xenia men were Dewey Wisecup, Harley Smith and Sherman Carnes.

Two other applicants were turned down at the same time. Chief Peters announced Monday that he has received word from the main offices at Cincinnati to accept enlistments for apprentices for the following trades, machinists, hospital corps, general and radio electric, yeoman for clerical work and musicians. He explained that only a slight knowledge of such trades would have to be possessed by the applicants.

JAZZES AT DEATH VERDICT

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 17.—Benny Rowland, a negro, executed the movements of the jazz dance—his shoulders swaying, fingers snapping and feet keeping time—and sang "I've done goin' to be 'lectricated till I've dead, dead, dead!" and "Buck! Dunmore, another negro, smiled broadly when the pair were sentenced to the electric chair by the court for the murder of a Mexican.

FISH GO ON "SOUSE."

Knoxville, Tenn., June 17.—When 2,300 bottles of whiskey containing approximately 150 gallons, worth about $6,000, were poured into the Tennessee River here the fishes had a big "souse." The whiskey was poured out in the presence of county officials. It was all that had accumulated since November, 1918.

SQUIRREL LOSES FUR.

Greenfield, Ia., June 17.—A pet squirrel on Prairie avenue, here was divested of its coat of fur during an electrical storm, yet it escaped alive. The squirrel was climbing a tree when the tree was struck by lightning. It has been noticed by residents, who are placing food for it in its hands.

AFTER THREE MONTHS GETS BOX FROM ABROAD

Almost three months on its way across the pond from Bordeaux, Elbert L. Babb, received Tuesday morning a box which he shipped from the French seaport early in April.

Mr. Babb had almost given up receiving the box which he shipped by American Express, and was about ready to claim the amount he had insured for. He beat the package home by several weeks after leaving after it did. The box had been opened by the United States Customs Officials and over $3 duty had to be paid on it. It was full of souvenirs Mr. Babb picked up while serving with the Army in France.

The Rev. H. J. Jewett, pastor of Trinity Church, who is a member of the faculty of the Summer School of Theology at Ohio Wesleyan University, at Delaware, has gone to that city to commence the work, which will last ten days. He will also be there for the commencement exercises which take place Wednesday.

The Rev. Mr. Jewett was accompanied from Xenia by two young boys, William Moore and Harold Ray, who have been selected to serve as pages at the Methodist Centenary celebration which is opening in Columbus this week. He took the boys to Columbus and saw them established in their work.

Mr. Jewett is one of five ministers from the West Ohio Conference who have been appointed members of the Summer Theological school faculty. The appointment is a permanent one.

How Character Is Made.

Character is never made by following the easy way. Character is made strong by its exercise against the temptation of ease and the lines of least resistance.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer in his vicinity that if two bottles of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment. Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless. Allenru relieves at once. Immediately after you start it the good work begins. It searches out the uric acid deposits, dissolves the secretions and drives rheumatic poison out of the body through the kidneys and bowels.

It's marvelous how quickly it acts. Blessed relief often comes in two days, and even in one day when the suffering is most painful all traces disappear in a few days. Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases and he has instructed Sayre & Hemphill to guarantee it in every instance. adv
